5th Grade Poets

Here are some more poems by our talented 5th grade students in recognition of Black History Month.

No More Hurt

By: Ethan McQuinn

No more hurt,
 No more pain.
 Feel the fresh dirt
 On the open plain.

Hunters chasing on the horses
 Guns shining ablaze,
 The rain douses the heat.
 We walk into a deep haze.

No more hurt,
 No more pain.
 Feel the fresh dirt
 On the open plain.

Issue #25-Mar. 5

We're there—the river!
Come swim with me!
I start to shake and shiver,
OW! I just got stung by a bee.

No more hurt,
No more pain.
Feel the fresh dirt
On the open plain.

Freedom

By: Cheyenne Miller

It's a way to be free,
It's a way to a new life...
RUN!
As fast as you can.
Don't look back.
Smell that sweet new life.
New life, here I come!

Life of a Slave

By: Levi Gibbs

I am considered an object.
No one cares if I live or die.
They say, "Do this," I do it.
They save, "Move," and I move.
Day and night I pray for freedom,
For I am a common slave.

Thank you, Dr. King

By: Katie Watkins

Thank you for all you have done.
You went through bricks and blood.
You fought for freedom.
And that dream...came true.
