Holiday Tips

"In the midst of the holiday season, pretty plants, colorful decorations and grown-up drinks can be all too tempting for a small child," says Tom Krzmarzick, MD, medical director of the Soin Pediatric Trauma and Emergency Center at Dayton Children's. "The excitement of the holiday season requires parents to be extra vigilant about protecting children from poison."

Keep a watchful eye on the kids this holiday season to prevent accidental poisonings by following these tips:

- Keep alcohol out of reach and do not leave alcoholic drinks unattended.
- Remember, specialty baking products such as extracts can contain alcohol and other harmful substances.
- Color additives used in fireplace fires are a toxic product and should be stored out of reach.
- Artificial snow sprays are also harmful if inhaled.
- Holly berries, mistletoe berries, poinsettias, amaryllis, boxwood, Christmas rose, Crown of Thorns, and English ivy are all potentially harmful if eaten.
- For more information, or to find out whether other decorative plants and products are hazardous to children, call the national Poison Control Center at 800-222-1222.

Santa Shop is next week Dec. 14 - Dec. 18
